

Yearbook of Mummy Studies

Heather Gill-Frerkling,
Wilfried Rosendahl
& Albert Zink
(editors)

Yearbook of Mummy Studies

The "Yearbook of Mummy Studies" is the first, and only, academic journal devoted solely to the publication of multidisciplinary research from all aspects of mummy studies.

Yearbook of Mummy Studies is published annually.

Editors in Chief

Heather Gill-Frerkling, Reiss-Engelhorn-Museen, German Mummy Project, Mannheim, Germany.
E-mail: heather.gill-robinson@mannheim.de

Wilfried Rosendahl, Reiss-Engelhorn-Museen, German Mummy Project, Mannheim, Germany.
E-mail: wilfried.rosendahl@mannheim.de

Albert R. Zink, European Academy of Bozen/Bolzano, Institute for Mummies and the Iceman, Italy.
E-mail: albert.zink@eurac.edu

Editorial Office

Yearbook of Mummy Studies, c/o Institute for Mummies and the Iceman, EURAC, Bolzano, Viale Druso 1, 39100, Bolzano, Italy
Phone: +39 0471 055560 · Fax: +39 0471 055579
E-mail: mummies.iceman@eurac.edu · www.eurac.edu

Associate Editors

Bernardo T. Arriaza, Arica, Chile.
Arthur C. Aufderheide, Duluth, USA.
Jane E. Buikstra, Tempe, USA.
Ann Rosalie David, Manchester, UK.
Sonia E. Guillén, Lima, Peru.
Salima Ikram, Cairo, Egypt.
Niels Lynnerup, Copenhagen, Denmark.
Karl J. Reinhard, Lincoln, USA.
Conrado Rodríguez Martín, Tenerife, Islas Canarias, Spain.
Franco Ugo Rollo, Camerino, Italy.
Frank J. Rühli, Zürich, Switzerland.
Michael Schultz, Göttingen, Germany.
Dong Hoon Shin, Seoul, Korea.
Sheila Maria Ferraz Mendonça de Souza, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.
Mark Spigelman, Jerusalem, Israel.

Please send this order form or order online at www.pfeil-verlag.de

I hereby order
Yearbook of Mummy Studies

Name _____

Address _____

E-mail _____

Volume 1 [38 €]
 Standing order subscription beginning with Volume

[38 € per volume]

Plus SHIPPING costs by weight: surface mail air mail

PAYMENT:

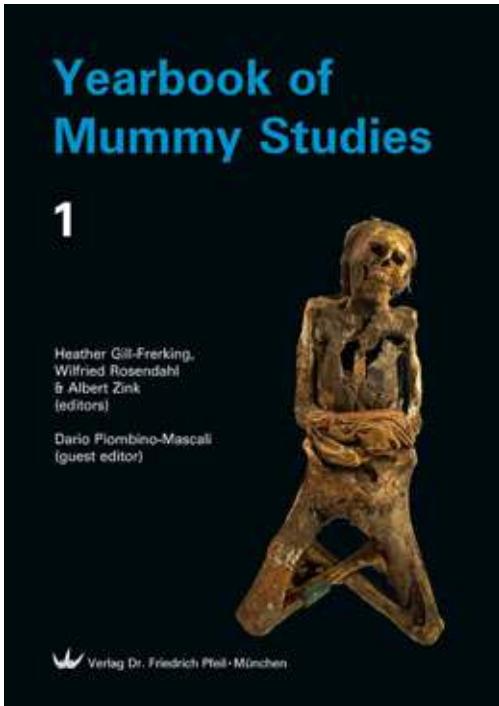

Please send proforma invoice
 Please charge my credit card:

Master/Eurocard Visa American Express

Card number:

Expiry date: / Card verification number:

Card holders signature:

Volume 1

June 2011

184 pp., 23 coloured and 78 black-and-white figures, 20 tables

ISBN 978-3-89937-137-6

Guest Editor

Dario Piombino-Mascali, European Academy of Bozen/Bolzano,
Institute for Mummies and the Iceman, Italy.
E-mail: dario.piombino@eurac.edu.de

This first issue of the "Yearbook of Mummy Studies" reflects some of the diversity seen in the discipline, while uniting mummy studies with a strong common goal – the application of scientific research methods for the study of mummies. In this issue, 26 papers by authors from 14 countries discuss aspects of methods of anthropogenic and spontaneous mummification; conservation and display; research methodology; biochemical and macroscopic dietary analyses; medical imaging and three-dimensional reconstruction; hair analysis; taphonomy; experimental archaeology; paleopathology and ancient DNA of mummies from South America, Egypt, Oceania, Europe and Asia. These papers were originally presented March 19–21, 2009, during the First Bolzano Mummy Congress: Mummies and Life Sciences, held at the EURAC-Institute for Mummies and the Iceman in Bolzano, Italy.

Contents of Volume 1

Editorial: The Yearbook of Mummy Studies (p. 5)

The Enigma of Ancient Egyptian Excerebration. – Arthur C. Aufderheide (p. 7–10)

A Field Report on the Mummification Practices of the Anga of Koke Village, Central Highlands, Papua New Guinea. – Ronald G. Beckett, Ulla Lohmann and Josh Bernstein (p. 11–17)

A Unique Field Mummy Conservation Project in Papua New Guinea. – Ronald G. Beckett, Ulla Lohmann and Josh Bernstein (p. 9–27)

The Biological Archive of the Museum of Anthropology and Ethnography of Turin: Microscopic Analysis to assess the Preservation of Ancient Human Hair. – Rosa Boano, Donatella Meaglia, Gabriella Dutto, Emanuele Costa and Emma Rabino Massa (p. 29–32)

A Comparison of Conventional or Plane Radiography versus Computerized Radiography in Paleoimaging Applications. – Gerald Conlogue, Tania Blyth, Jiazi Li and Ronald Beckett (p. 33–36)

Egyptian Mummies and Radiology: A Closer Link. – Paola Cosmacini and Patrizia Piacentini (p. 37–44)

Why Ancient Glacier Mummies are so Special: the Ingesta are Encoded Diaries and Maps. – James H. Dickson (p. 45–50)

Detection and Characterization of Mycobacterium tuberculosis DNA in 18th Century Hungarians with Pulmonary and Extra-pulmonary Tuberculosis. – Helen D. Donoghue, Ildikó Pap, Ildikó Szikossy and Mark Spigelman (p. 51–56)

Multidisciplinary Investigation of the Manchester Elliot Smith Skulls. – Roger Forshaw and Angelique Corthals (p. 57–62)

Dual-energy Computed Tomography Automated Bone Identification in Ancient Egyptian Mummies. – Saul N. Friedman, Andrew J. Nelson, Patrick V. Granton, David W. Holdsworth, Rethy Chhem and Ian A. Cunningham (p. 63–68)

Experimental Archaeology for the Interpretation of Taphonomy related to Bog Bodies: Lessons learned from two Projects undertaken a Decade apart. – Heather Gill-Frerkling and Colleen Healey (p. 69–74)

Parasite Eggs found in Korean Mummies. – Min Seo, Chang Seok Oh and Dong Hoon Shin (p. 75–81)

Use of 3D Virtual Reconstruction for Pathological Investigation and Facial Reconstruction of an 18th Century Mummified Nun from Hungary. – Ágnes Kustár, Ildikó Pap, Zsófia Végvári, Lilla Alida Kristóf, György Pálfi, Kinga Karlinger, Balázs Kovács and Ildikó Szikossy (p. 83–93)

Hair Analysis: a Tool for Identifying Pathological and Social Information. – Natalie C. McCreesh, Andrew P. Gize, John Denton and A. Rosalie David (p. 95–98)

Acauã: CT Scanning a Mummified Body from Gentio II Cave, Minas Gerais, Brazil Debra. – K. Meier, Sheila Mendonça de Souza, Bernardo Tessarolo, Gláucia Aparecida Malerba Sene and Laura Piedade Ribeiro da Silva (p. 99–107)

The Interplay of DNA and Lipid Biomarkers in the Detection of Tuberculosis and Leprosy in Mummies and other Skeletal Remains. – David E. Minnikin, Gurdayal S. Besra, Oona Y-C. Lee, Mark Spigelman and Helen D. Donoghue (p. 109–114)

Synchrotron Mid-infrared Analysis of the Kwäday Dän Ts’inchí Ancient Remains found in a Glacier in Canada. – Colleen R. Christensen, Mike Jackson, Jacksy Zhao, Wayne Vogl and Maria Victoria Monsalve (p. 115–119)

Nicotine in Hair Samples of Pre-Columbian Mummies – Proof of Consumption or Artifact? – Frank Musshoff, Wilfried Rosendahl and Burkhard Madea (p. 121–125)

The ROM / UWO Mummy Project: a Microcosm of Progress in Mummy Research. – Andrew J. Nelson, Rethy Chhem, Ian A. Cunningham, Saul N. Friedman, Greg Garvin, Gayle Gibson, Patrick V. Granton, David W. Holdsworth, Stephanie Holowka, Fred Longstaffe, Victoria Lywood, Ngan Nguyen, Roberta Shaw, Mark Trumpour, Andrew D. Wade and Christine D. White (p. 127–132)

Complete Sequencing of the Mitochondrial Genome of Ancient Human Mummies. – Luca Ermini, Cristina Olivieri, Ermanno Rizzi, Giorgio Corti, Raoul Bonnal, Stefania Luciani, Isolina Marota, Gianluca De Bellis, Martin Richards and Franco Rollo (p. 133–138)

Where Have All the Plant Foods Gone? The Search for Refined Dietary Reconstruction from Chinchorro Mummies. – Karl J. Reinhard, Sara LeRoy-Toren and Bernardo Arriaza (p. 139–151)

Think about the Children: An Extraordinary Peruvian Mummy from the Collection of the Reiss-Engelhorn-Museen in Mannheim, Germany. – Wilfried Rosendahl, Anna-Maria Begerock, Heather Gill-Frerkling and Robert Hoppa (p. 153–158)

Humidity- and Temperature-Related Preservation Challenges for the Iceman. – Vito C. Fornicola and Marco Samadelli (p. 159–164)

Age Estimation by 3D CT Scans of the Borremose Woman, a Danish Bog Body. – Chiara Villa, Maria Møller Rasmussen and Niels Lynnerup (p. 165–169)

Facial Analysis of Preserved Bodies. – Caroline Wilkinson (p. 171–180)

Assessment of the State of Preservation of Keratin Material found with the Iceman in Comparison to other Mummy Hairs. – Gabriele Wortmann and Franz-Josef Wortmann (p. 181–184)

Volume 2 (2012) will include a special section on
"Ice Mummies"

Find more information and order online at www.pfeil-verlag.de